

Heirloom Bonnet - an adaptation of a classic poem

Christina Kenkel

A tiny square of linen
And a simple edge of lace,
Designed into a bonnet,
To frame your baby's face.

After Baby's worn it
Fold and tuck away...
It will become a handkerchief
For her future wedding day.

From boxes long sealed,
she will find it with a smile.
It will dry her tears of joy
as she walks down the aisle.
